

Feeling Moe's Greatness Training System

Feeling Moe's Greatness™ system using The Feeling of Greatness © training club has 7 setup positions before you ever move the club. They are as follows:

1. Feet are correct width.

2. Toes are correct distance from ball – position "A."

3. Ball is in correct setup position – position "A."

4. Use The Feeling of Greatness® training grip and club, which will give you the correct grip.

5. Place club head on Position "C."

6. Align club to face line, which will make club face square to aim line.

7. As you set up, make sure shaft covers line so that you do not see the line. This puts your hands in the correct position at setup.

Now, as you start your back swing, move the club head to position "B." When the club is at position "B," the leading edge of the club face should be square to the line that passes through "B" and at the same time covering the line that is below 6I.

As you hinge the club up from position "B," the laser should follow Line 1 to position "B." You are now at the top of your backswing. The laser light starts down Line 2 as you shift your weight. The laser light then follows Line 2 as your hands start down. (This is known as "Moe's Vertical Drop.")

On the downswing, when the club becomes parallel to the ground, it should also be parallel to Line 3. You are now on the correct path as the club comes into impact.
